Council Asks Changes In 'CM' Zone Ordinance

Heavy artillery in the form of a lawyer's verbal barrage moved onto the "CM" firing line at the City Council meeting Monday and forced a somewhat battered "Controlled Manufacturing" zoning ordinance to make a strategic withdrawal for reenforcements after five hours of intensive buffeting by its opponents.

But the City Council indicated that "CM" is expected to return to the battles in a few weeks strengthened by a more clear definition of the industries and their operations that would be allowed in the new zone. It was this section of the proposed ordinance that was subjected to the most consistent hammering by opponents to the new type of zoning in the marathon meeting which set a new record for length.

Adjourns at 2:30

It was 2:30 a.m. when a weary Council adjourned the meeting. Before adjournment, however, the Council voted to return the "CM" ordinance to the Planning Commission for rewording of the offending section relating to industries allowed under its regulations.

John Burnett, San Jose attorney, took the limelight Monday at the Council meeting as he impassionately and with oratorical eloquence unprecedented for a local Council meeting pleaded the case of his clients, the property owners in the 190-acre proposed industrial park of Campbell.

Although the San Jose attorney in general objected to the entire ordinance and the announced plan to apply it to the property in the industrial park, he directed his main attack to the section defining industries allowed. He claimed it was ambiguous and discriminatory, no matter what the intent of the Planners had been.

The controversial "CM" ordinance, which amends the present city zoning ordinance to allow for more restrictive industrial control in areas yet to be designated, was up for its second reading (and adoption) at the meeting. At a previous meeting the Council had held a public hearing on the amendment and given the "first reading" to it.

Codes "By Reference"

Because the ordinance also allows for incorporating certain performance standards into it throught adoption of codes relating to smoke, noise and odors "by reference" it was necessary to hold a public hearing for this purpose at the meeting Monday before the second reading of the ordinance could be given.

Burnett led off the evening's bombardment by objecting to the adoption of these codes but his objection were overruled by the Council and the codes were officially, but, as it turned out, unnecessarily adopted.

By the Council's subsequent action of referring the ordinance to the Planning Commission for rewording, the entire procedure, including the code adoption must be repeated at a later date when the revised ordinance is again presented.

It is expected that the Planning Commission at its meeting next Tuesday (August 20) will set September 3 as the public hearing date for the readoption of the revised job.

In returning the ordinance to the Planning Commission, the Council in effect agreed with one of Burnett's points that the language in some instances was ambiguous where it referred to manufacturing and wholesale. The Council also thought that some provisions should be made for retail sales by manufacturers (the ordinance prohibits all retail sales in the area). The Councilmen also thought more study should be given to the methods specified for adding other allowable uses in the area in the future.

How the revised "CM" ordinance will be treated by its opponents at the repeat performance next month was a question that no one had a ready answer for this week.

Tax Rate Cut

Taxpayers within the City of Campbell got a break this week by the action of the City Council on Monday setting the tax rate at 66.1 cents $100 assessed valuation. This is a full five-cent drop in the tax rate from last year and marks the second year in a row that the tax rate has been reduced.

The Council set the tax rate upon notification that the public utilities assessed valuation for the City had been established at $1,102,530, an increase of $243,850 over last year. The assessed valuation of the City, without utilities, had risen this year to $9,788,200 from $8,434,120 last year. The assessed valuation this year is $ 10,890,730, a jump of $1,597,930.

The City will also operate on a lower budget this year than last, $357,093.71 compared to $383,156 despite the addition of several more city employees, raises in salaries and the purchase of needed equipment.

Campbell Summer Recreation Program Closes Activities

Variety of Programs Offered For Campbell Area Children

An all-successful Campbell Summer Recreation program concludes tomorrow with 19 elementary playgrounds and two high schools closing their gates for the summer. The swimming program will continue through August 30 according to Bill Priddy, Campbell high school district recreation director.

Recreation leaders at the various playgrounds have carried on a multitude of activities during the summer with such new programs as nature study, woodshop activities, a junior museum program and a day camp being offered to Campbell area youngsters.

In addition to new activities, regular programs of arts and crafts and other physical sports were held on the playgrounds which attracted great numbers of children ranging in ages from six to sixteen.

Milo Long, playground coordinator and director of arts and crafts activities, termed the playground programs "very successful" and indicated that local youngsters displayed a great deal of interest and initiative in activities planned for them.

A nature study program, initiated this year and directed by Earl Morway, proved quite interesting though not attracting as many participants as some of the more established activities, according to Long. Children had a chance to study leaves, rocks and insects, while learning other aspects of outdoor life.

Rod McDermott gave instruction to interested youths in tumbling and wrestling—a program which has proved popular in the past.

A variety of arts and crafts were available at all playgrounds and included such activities as paper crafts, woodburning, odds and ends made from scrap lumber, leather crafts, printing and stenciling, copper wire, nature crafts, plaster of paris work, and prints of leaves, pine cones, butterflies and animal tracks. "The arts and crafts program, along with the usual activities such as softball, volleyball etc., hold the most interest for children on the playgrounds", says Long.

Another program initiated this year was the Junior Museum Program which was brought to Campbell from the San Jose-Santa Clara County Junior Museum. The program was open to

The students have participated in the Campbell Summer Music Program which started July 8 and ends tonight with the big finale. The music staff is headed by Ed Tonini who is assisted by eleven instructors.

Tonight's program includes intermediate band, beginning strings, drum corps, intermediate orchestra, beginning woodwinds, advanced band, beginning brass, folk singing and dancing and advanced orchestra.

All of the students enrolled in the music course will take part in the concert.

The students are from the Campbell high district and have studied from 9 to 12 noon, Monday through Friday, during the six week period. Instruction was offered in intermediate, advanced and beginning music with other activities such as folk dancing and singing and recreational games also provided.

One of the highlights of the music program was a trip to San Francisco by 268 students and 20 adults to see Cinerama.

Music instruction was provided by various music teachers in the Campbell area and some student teachers. Sherman Clay & Co. of San Jose furnished instruments for beginners while other students provided their own.

Tonight's program is open to the public without charge.

Campbell Union high's swimming program starts its last two weeks Monday with a two-week period scheduled for children's swimming instruction and adult instruction available in the evenings.

Children signing up for instruction receive ten lessons of one-half hour each. Instruction is given Monday through Friday from 9:25 a.m. to 1:05 p.m. Lessons for adults are conducted Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

The pool is open for recreational swimming each day from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and on Monday and Wednesday from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Mass Tonight Opens Church

First Mass in the new St. Lucy's Catholic Church in Campbell will be celebrated this evening.

Finishing touches to the spacious $200,000 edifice on Winchester Road at Kennedy Ave. were made this week in preparation for the solemn high Mass at 8 p.m. at which Father Denis Kennelly, pastor, will be the celebrant.

Father Lawrence O'Toole, S.J. will be deacon, and Father Stephen Early, S.J., sub-deacon. Father Early will give the sermon. Father Thomas Ahern, assistant pastor at St. Lucy's, will be the master-of-ceremonies.

The First Mass in the new church will mark the Feast of Assumption, a holy day of obligation of the church. Morning Masses at 6, 7 and 8 will be held at the old church on Rincon Ave. Following tonight's services, the regular daily and Sunday Mass schedule will be followed at the new church. Masses on Sunday are at 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12:15.

Father Kennelly said the church will be dedicated at a later date when church dignitaries of the archdiocese will participate.

The new rectory adjacent to the new church was also occupied for the first time this week.

To Request RR Crossing

Dell Avenue Property Owners Get City Aid for Street Improvements

Potential developers of the industrial park area in the vicinity of Dell Ave., received a big boost from the City of Campbell Monday when the City Council directed Mark Thomas, city engineer, to file an application with the State Public Utilities Commission for a railroad crossing at Dell Ave.

Engineer to Start

The Council also directed Thomas by a 4 to 1 vote (Councilman Richard Morton dissenting) to go ahead with the preliminary engineering work for the proposed assessment district for improvements for the same area. It was estimated that this engineering work would approximate $5,000.

Morton objected because a number of the major property owners had indicated that they would not go along with the assessment district if the crossing was not authorized.

In authorizing the filing for the railroad crossing, the Council agreed with R. L. Townsend, a leader in the fight for improvements, that the application should be for a permanent crossing and not a temporary one as had been recommended by the Planning Commission as a part of its master street plan for the area.

The Council accepted the street plan of the Commission with that change after Planning Consultant Nestor Barrett had outlined its main features.

The Council also on Monday accepted the resolution of the Commission recommending the industrial park be zoned "CM" when that zone was adopted by the City. Noting, however, that before the area would be zoned. public hearing would be held both by the Commission and the Council. John Burnett, counsel for property owners in the area, objected to the recommendation on the basis that it was a predetermined action.

In other actions, the Council:

1. Set August 26 as the hearing for the appeal of Oleg Lubeckis from a Planning Commission denial of his application for a variance on his one-acre property on E. Parr Ave.
2. Adopted a new Fire Zone ordinance.
3. Set August 26 as the hearing date for the change of zone request of Richard Salice for property on W. Rincon Ave.
4. Referred to city attorney the request of the Skitron TV, Inc., for permit and license to operate a closed TV circuit in Campbell.
5. Authorized Councilman Myron Fairchild to apear on behalf of the City at the hearing on the Junipero Serra Freeway at the Fremont High School this Thursday.
6. Referred to the City attorney the agreement with the county to finance the traffic survey now underway.
7. Accepted with regret the resignation of Milton Mayer from the Personnel Board and authorized a certificate of appreciation for his services.
8. Acknowledged the receipt of $1,079.65 in fines for July.

Until the Wee Hours of the Morning

Everyone Gets Heard at 'CM' Hearing

Although John Burnett, San Jose attorney, was representing most of the property owners in the industrial area who were protesting "CM" zoning and acted as official spokesman for them at the Council meeting on Monday, many of his clients also had their say during the prolonged meeting.

The basic principles of "CM" were defended by Council members, Planning Consultant Nestor Barrett and Sam O'Brien, Planning Commission chairman, at the meeting which set a new record for length. It was 2:30 a.m. before the meeting was adjourned.

However, as a rule, it was only when the charges made by opponents implied wrongful intentions on the part of the city officials that city brass answered the objections.

Councilman Richard Morton, however, made the Council's stand clear when he reminded the objectors that the meeting was a "hearing" and just because the Council was sitting in silence it did not mean that the Councilmen necessarily acceded to the statements made either by Burnett or by others. Morton instructed the court reporter, who was recording the meeting on behalf of Burnett, to include that statement in the record.

One of the most persistent speakers from the floor was Warren Brown, who wants to operate a small cabinet shop on property he owns in the area. He objected to many points of "CM", but was caught up short by Morton during one of his frequent oratorical appearances when he started to charge the Council with "manipulations". He thought better of the word and hastily withdrew it when Morton asked him to be specific.

Others who spoke their pieces included:

HOWARD CLARK, 917 E. Parr, operator of a dog kennel at that location. He provoked a chuckle when he asked how his business should be classified as to wholesale, retail or manufacturing. (It was generally agreed that they did not manufacture the dogs.)

MRS. LORAIN CLARK, 917 E. Parr: She wondered what the small property owners were going to do in the "CM" area. They wouldn't be able to sell, she claimed, and they couldn't operate any business themselves.

LEE PURDY, a plumber, who owns property on Dell Ave.: He wondered when it would be "legal" for him to operate his plumbing shop from the Dell Ave. location, where he apparently has been operating for some time waiting for the problems to be cleared.

J. F. T. LUDEMAN, another Dell Ave. property owner: He drew cheers from the crowd when he appealed for the Council to junk the whole "CM" business. "CM" is a mess," he said, "Throw it out and make it all M-1-S as was planned and there will be no problems.

FLOYD DAY, another potential industrialist on Dell Ave.: He claimed that he had been assured by the real estate agent who had handled the purchase of the property for him that it would be M-1.

MARK J. THOMAS, a resident on Dell Ave.: He wondered why the high-type "CM" standards should not be applied to all areas in the city. He was referring mainly to the noise and smoke standards.

Burnett scored some telling blows when he tore into what he termed the ambiguities of the ordinance referring to the types of industries allowed.

The attorney implied that when the ordinance allowed a restaurant as the only retail outlet, that meant a bar could come in. Thus, he claimed, a man could buy a shot of whiskey but not an ice-cream cone—for only ice-cream manufacturing, wholesale was allowed. He added also that rugs could be cleaned in the area, according to the ordinance, but not a suit of clothes.

In addition to the verbal protests at the meeting, Mayor John M. Chargin read aloud letters of protest from property owners and others which extended the meeting considerably, as several of the letters were five pages or more in length.

Letters read included: Western Gravel, signed by Lynn Beatty, vice-president and general manager; Cal Falcon, Barbara Falcon, Warren Brown and Jack Craig. Several letters from the Campbell Chamber of Commerce over the signature of Sam Cava, manager, were also read to clarify the stand of the C. of C. on the "CM" issue based on the Chambers activities in the annexation of the area.

Polio Shots Monday

Polio shots will be resumed Monday, August 19, at Hamilton School for all residents of Campbell regardless of age, Santa Clara County Health Department has announced.

The clinic will be open between 3 and 6 p.m. and first, second and third shots will be available. All who received their first shot a month or more ago are urged to obtain their second injection at the clinic or from their own doctor.

4th, 5th and 6th graders and divided into two three-week sessions, the second ending tomorrow. Trained naturalists from the museum brought in live museum animals for demonstrations and also instructed children in making plant and animal collections and how to attract birds. Several field trips were taken including one to Natural Bridges State Park to study seashore life.

The Junior Museum program was highly successful and is planned again for next year.

A Day Camp at the Lexington School in the Santa Cruz mountains was held in conjunction with Los Gatos, also for 4th, 5th and 6th graders. Three two-week sessions were held with children being transported by bus to the school site at 9 a.m. each day and returning at 4 p.m. Children participating in the Day Camp had an opportunity to study outdoor life and perform various nature crafts under the direction of three men leaders and one high school girl director.

Field trips were conducted to Felton Big Trees, Ghost Town at Felton and Big Basin State Park.

Children participating in the playground programs were under the supervision of two leaders, usually a man and woman. The leaders were mostly Campbell elementary teachers with some San Jose State students also employed. Activities in addition to arts and crafts and physical sports, included chess, checkers and other games designed for elementary age children.

In addition to the elementary playgrounds in operation two teenage centers were open, Buc's Cove at Campbell high and Cougar's Den at Camden high school.

In emphasizing the importance of participation in the playground programs, coordinator Long stated that the recreation department stresses individual playground initiative rather than a centralized program. Some inter-playground competition was carried on at the discretion of the playground leaders concerned.

FIRE ON S.J.-L.G. ROAD

A fire on Tuesday afternoon destroyed a three-room dwelling used by farm workers on San Jose-Los Gatos Road north of Hamilton Ave. County firemen checked the spread of flames which had ignited trees and three other houses.

BAD CHECK WRITER

Campbell police this week reported that John N. Cardoza, 42, of Hollister, had been apprehended in Sonoma County. District "4" Lets Sewer Contracts

Sanitation District 4 directors last Thursday overruled protests and awarded the contract for the extension of lines in the new Campbell-Los Gatos industrial park. Associated Engineers of Palo Alto got the job with a low bid of $75,159, considerably below the estimate of $97,797 by Thelo Perrott, district engineer.

The industrial park project is one of five that are planned to be completed by November, according to Steve Goodman, district manager. Contracts have been awarded also for the construction of a corporation yard and office for the district on the proposed Sunnyoaks "cut-through" in Campbell's new industrial park.

PUSHING TIPS—In the event that your car stalls and someone volunteers to push you, the California State Automobile Association suggests these two tips: 1) If the car has a conventional transmission, keep ignition on, place gear shift in the "high" position and allow the car to gain some speed before releasing the clutch. 2) With automatic transmission, be sure to consult owner's manual, which comes with the car, for instructions on how to have the car pushed for starting. These instructions should be carefully followed.

PLANNING ON PLANTING?

GARDENER'S CHECK LIST

By The California Association of Nurserymen

REMINDERS

1. To help lawns absorb water easier, use a lawn spike or aerator. You can tell when this is necessary if water runs off the lawn after only a short watetring period.

2. Your lawn will relish a feeding right now.

3. This is the best time to check your local nursery for winter-blooming shrubs and perennials.

4. Before replanting garden areas for the winter, use a good soil conditioner. Your work will be easier and your plants will thrive.

5. Try seeding winter and early spring flowers now. Some annuals to sow now are Alyssum, Calendula, Candytuft, Sweet Pea, Lupine and Forget-Me-Not.

Prostrate Junipers

"Laying down on the job" is generally frowned upon. Yet, certain varieties of Juniper accomplish things "laying down" that are impossible for upright shrubs.

Paramount among these accomplishments is the excellent ground cover provided by the coniferous creeper. The Juniper is exceptionally attractive as a ground cover both on steep slopes and on level ground. Similarly employed, these pleasing — and very clean—shrubs furnish effective entrance-way specimen plantings, either at doorsteps or along-side driveways.

The California Association of Nurserymen points out that landscape architects assign varied tasks to these versatile prostrate junipers because of their many distinctive and unusual forms plus their willingness to thrive even in poor soil.

Roof-top gardeners also may make valuable use of prostrate junipers, for they are shallow rooted plants, ideal for shallow planting boxes.

Dwarf creeping junipers (juniperus horizontalis procumbens) are welcome additions to California Rock gardens. Colorwise, their bluish-green and bluish-gray colors provide eye-catching contrast to vari-colored rocks.

For a low-slung accent around swimming pools, the creeping junipers are an ideal selection. Planted separately or in rows, these bushy, spreading forms and deep colors provide elegant contrast to the shimmering water surface.

August and September are good months to select young prostrate junipers from containers at your local nursery, and incorporate them in your own care for and guarantee years of landscaping scheme. They are remarkably easy to plant and satisfaction.

After transferring the plants to your own garden, they should be kept damp while adjusting themselves to new soil environment. They will appreciate an application of manure when being set in. After this initial preparation, the evergreen juniper requires little attention from year to year.

Among the sprawling junipers, the most often used are Tamarix Juniper, Trailing Juniper and Waukegan Juniper. The blue-green Tamarix Juniper (juniperus sabina tamariscifolia) is slightly taller than the common creeper, and this makes it especially desirable for specimen planting along walks, as well as other uses mentioned above.

Trailing juniper, known both as juniperus chinensis prostrata and juniperus horizontalis, provides an exceptionally fine ground cover.

Color is the particularly distinguishing feature of the Waukegan Juniper. For most of the year this handsome shrub is a soft metallic blue, but in the fall it changes to a brilliant purple blue.

Some other types of Common Juniper are similar to those prostrate forms. For example, the low juniperus communis depressa, distinguished by golden-tipped branches, serves many of the purposes of the prostrate forms, adding a colorful touch to the landscape.

The grayish Pfitzer Juniper (j. chinensis pfitzeriana) is not actually a true prostrate shrub either, but because it often lacks a central leader, it may also serve the many uses of the prostrate forms. This Pfitzer Juniper is also available as a more Compact Pfitzer and a Blue Pfitzer for increased garden diversity.

Junipers may be successfully grown in rocky or dry soil areas, but they thrive best in sandy or loamy soils kept slightly moist.

Hardy Ferns

Appearances can be deceiving. No better proof of this old saw can be produced than the delicate appearing fern. Ferns are descended from the world's oldest dry land plants, and to persist for this length of time, has developed great adaptability. This same quality makes them wonderful plants for all California gardens.

Ferns are native to forests where the surrouding soil is largely decayed leaf matter, and therefore are still best adaptable to well-drained soil which contains considerable humus and peat moss (for aeration). However, ferns have been known to thrive even in crevices between rocks and in combinations of milled sawdust and wood chips.

Again because it is a forest plant, ferns do well in shade. Thus, they are excellent for north side planting, and for planting under large shade trees. In fact, they are the perfect solution for all problem shady areas.

Giant Chain Fern (woodwardia fimbriata) is one of the best-known garden ferns. A large plant with five-foot fronds (leaves growing right out of the ground), the Giant Chain Fern makes a distinctive background for low-growing shrubs.

Costs Go Up

Pacific Telephone Files for Rate Hikes with Utilities Commission

Pacific Telephone has asked the California Public Utilities Commission for a repricing of some of its rates to help offset increased wage payments and other costs, according to E. D. Maloney, vice-president and general manager.

Under the company's proposal, monthly rates for main and party line telephone service would be unchanged. But charges on most Bay Area calls beyond 8 miles would be increased by 4.4 cents, the cost of a single message unit.

Other Items Up

Other items on which increases are proposed include service connection and installation charges, and rates on person-to-person long distance calls to points in California.

Long distance rates on station-to-station calls and calls to points outside the State will remain unchanged.

"We are currently underway on our greatest expansion program in California," Maloney said. "This program is costing about $1.3 million every working day, for a total of $321 million this year. Wage increases alone have raised our intrastate operating costs by about $28 million during this period. Meanwhile, State and local taxes have gone up over $18,000,000, or 51 per cent over the $35,700,000 of 1954. This year we will pay one of the largest tax bills in California, around $54 million dollars."

Maloney estimated that the proposed rate increases would net the company less than $14 million annually after income taxes on the $28 million expected to result from the new rates on a statewide basis.

Installation Also

Statewide increases are asked on installation charges, which are one-time levies when a phone is installed. The proposed installation charges would change from the present $7 to $10 on new residence services: $10 to $15 on new business service; and $4 to $7 on both business and residence where a telephone is already in place but not connected.

Under the proposal, a three-minute call from Campbell to Redwood City would take six message units instead of the present five. This would mean an increase of 4.4 cents in the cost of the call.

On person-to-person calls, increases ranging from 5 to 40 cents for the first three minutes would apply, the charge depending upon the distance.

Other Proposals

Oher proposals:

The charge for moving or changing the present telephone would be increased from the present $4 to $5.

An increase of 25-cents in the monthly charge for business message rate and semi-public extension telephones.

The application said company forecasts indicate California will have about 9,000,000 telephones by 1965, compared with over 5,000,000 today. This will call for a total plant investment of about 4 billion dollars, more than double the company's capital investment at the first of this year.

Recreation Director Speaks at Rotary

Kenneth Robison, recreation director of Campbell High School District, was guest speaker at Monday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club. Robison outlined the district's summer recreation program for grammar school and high school students which is now in progress in all Campbell schools.

Emmerson (Doc) Arends was chairman for the day.

Pacific Telephone officials now figure on an investment of $447 behind each new telephone it installs today compared with an average investment of $241 per telephone at the end of World War II.

We Suggest a "CM" Compromise

Since the inception of discussion and study of the controversial "Controlled Manufacturing" zoning, two irreconcilable forces have met headon. Neither side has budged.

Property owners of the area where it is contemplated to apply "CM" have claimed that city officials have shown bad faith by getting them into the city under the pretext that one type of zoning would be applied and now have decided to put higher restrictions on the area.

They maintain that these new restrictions would work a hardship on the small property owner. One of the main criticisms leveled at "CM" has been the restrictions as to lot size.

Some of the property owners involved, however have indicated that the "CM" standards are good for the most part and wil be beneficial to them in the long run.

The Planners have consistently and unwaveringly maintained that "CM" will benefit the entire town and that it will attract a better class of industries.

They have agreed in principle, however, that lot sizes might vary to a degree. In the northern section, they have announced, one-acre would be the minimum while in the southern part, two acres.

We suggest that a further compromise might be effected.

One of the regulations in the proposed new zone limits a building to 40 per cent coverage of a lot.

Could not this 40 per cent factor then be used as the standard and eliminate any mention of acreage or square footage, but at the same time retain the other restrictions of "CM"?

Our mathematics (never too sharp) reveal that on a half-acre of land an 8000 square foot building could be erected and still satisfy both the 40 per cent coverage as well as the setback and parking requirements.

There are many small industries in which 8000 square feet would serve admirably.

We firmly believe that the basic "CM" principles are sound and that the Planners and City Councilmen should be commended for their stand.

We are convinced that the City of Campbell NEEDS higher standards.

We also recognize that small industry has a definite place in the industrial "big picture."

It seems logical to us that it might be possible to reconcile both factions through a compromise of sorts. At least it would be worth a try.

It might take a good selling job to put it across, but the whole "CM" picture could stand just that.

That is something that has been sadly lacking thus far, in our opinion.

Ball Carrier Needs Interference

One of the most far-reaching steps in the future planning of the City of Campbell is on the verge of being taken.

Every resident of this community, whether he lives in the center of town, at the northern edge, in the new subdivisions on the west, in the apartments on the east or at the southern city limits will be affected by this step.

But one wouldn't know it, if the attendance at the meetings of the Planning Commission or the City Council is taken as any criterion of the situation.

We, of course, refer to the controversial "Controlled Manufacturing" zoning that is in the process of being adopted and applied to territory at the southern city limits of Campbell.

Both the Planning Commission and the City Council have announced that the new "CM" zone is planned for the benefit of the city as a whole.

But their announcement has fallen on deaf ears, as far as the bulk of the citizens are concerned.

The Planners and City Dads maintain that by sponsoring "CM" they are protecting the interests of residential sections of the town far removed from the area that is being considered for this new zoning.

Apparently the people in these sections either assume that the city officials will take care of their interests without them indicating how they feel about it, or they just don't care what happens to the town.

Frankly we think it is shameful that the people in these sections who are bound to be affected have shown such little interest in their own welfare that they have not bothered to attend any of the meetings on the "CM" question.

On the other hand all meetings at which "CM" has been discussed have been packed to the rafters.

Property owners from that area at the south city limits where it is proposed to apply the new zoning have jammed the council chambers and have proclaimed to the high heavens that they don't wan't this highly restrictive type of zoning shoved down their throats.

Twice during a recent meeting this lack of interest on the part of local residents other than those in the proposed industrial zone was sneeringly referred to.

If it is true, as you claim, one of the more vociferous opponents emphasized in effect, that you Councilmen and Planners are trying to protect the interests of the majority of the people of Campbell by establishing this highly restrictive type of zoning, just where are these people whom you are protecting? The only citizens who have ever been present are those who have property in the area.

It is a sad but true state of affairs and pretty frustrating to say the least for the elective city officials who we feel are sincerely attempting to do a job for the benefit of ALL the people.

But everyone has a stake in the outcome, whether or not they own property in the industrial park.

It is pretty tough on the City Dads and the City Planners.

They are carrying the ball all by themsevles.

Even in football, an all-American ball carrier can get pretty bruised trying to run without interference.

Over the Years

By John D. Blaine

Campbell Public Library makes what is to me an amazing number of loans.

For instance, the grand total for 1956 was 47,370. This number divides into 18,268 fiction for adults, 13,322 fiction for children, 13,069 non-fiction altogether, and 2,491 periodicals.

Fines for overdue books came to $501.77, which speaks well for the practical efficiency that checks on the careless.

That our combined Country Woman's Club House and Library Building is unique and therefore in a class by itself is a generally accepted fact.

And that our Country Woman's Club has been the sponsor and moral backbone of our Library since the Club was organized is the truth.

Date for the organization of Campbell Country Woman's Club given in the 1957 map and folder of Campbell Chamber of Commerce is 1905. The folder goes on to say that the Club "established a library in their building with Mr. Elijah James as librarian."

The name "James" is perhaps a misprint. Our first librarian was known as Prof. Janes. He began serving Campbell as librarian well before 1900 in the Congregational Church, where I first borrowed books—if I am not mistaken as I was in saying Doc Beale was our first druggist. In connection with the library Prof. Janes gave a few evening lectures in a small room of the Church.

When the Country Woman's Club built the small structure now used by our Chamber of Commerce the Library was moved there. Books were not many and had been mostly donated.

Sometime there was organized something called, I believe, Campbell Library Association, which officially owned the first Library books. What became of this Association somebody may know better than I do. I believe it simply faded away for lack of use.

Once on a time we had a Campbell Book Club. Each member purchased a book, each member read all the books. Then books not retained by members were given to the Library.

I was a member and recall a book titled "The Sky Pilot." Said pilot was a preacher among cow punchers. An amusing incident was where a certain procession developed into a race between the wagon carrying the mourners and the wagon load of pall bearers. These vehicles began to pass the wagon bearing the coffin. This driver whipped up and edged out the other two, later explaining he "wasn't going to see no corp get beat going to his own funeral."

The book club faded away as interest in our Library became greater and the Library itself stronger. The Chamber of Commerce folder doesn't say when our Library became connected with the central County Library, which at present supplies most of our books.

The folder does say that our present Library Building combined with the Country Woman's Club House was constructed in 1923. The project of getting the money for this combined structure, truly unique, beautiful and in a class by itself, by public subscription is a dramatic story in itself.

With ideal facilities and an ideal librarian nothing remains to be desired except ideal use. While Prof. Janes was librarian he tried to elevate use by writing some book reviews for the Campbell Weekly Visitor, forerunner of The Campbell Press.

I have been told that I should have been a professor, much to my amusement. My interest in improvement of the mind is largely due to the fact that I never went to school much. I was therefore not adversely conditioned, with the desire to get my education "over with," as is the general rule.

True, there is something popular known as "adult education." But it is mostly inexpensive entertainment. Show me any considerable interest in books connected with it. Folk dancing is or was the most popular course in Campbell.

So little-schooled "Professor" Blaine might try a few book reviews if they don't kill interest in this column. Since American readers are chiefly interested in people I shall make effort to sprinkle my book reviews with people.

For no apparent reason, other than when we grab a quick lunch at our house the cardboard milk container generally occupies a conspicuous spot in the center of the table, we have been studying lately the descriptive phrases that appear on the various milk containers.

Thus while gulping our milk and sandwich we have picked up considerable trivia that we feel is only fair to pass on to you.

So far we have limited our lunch-time research to only two brands (Carnation and Challenge) but we may expand our research because our study has become very fascinating.

Challenge offers "400 USP Units Vitamin "D" added per quart. Source-irradiated ergosterol", while Carnation claims "400 USP units Vitamin "D" per quart activated ergosterol."

—o—

We had a general idea what they both were talking about but only general, we assure you. So we called in Webster to help us learn just what was going on milkwise.

We like milk and have consumed gallons and gallons of it in our lifetime but it was actually the first time that we realized that we had been consuming this "activated" (Carnation) or "irridiated" (Challenge) ergosterol.

With Webster's help we found that "irradiated" means treated with rays or by irradiation. Further reading disclosed that irradiation means illuminating and treating or exposing to x-rays or ultraviolet rays for radiant energy.

So now we know what we have been drinking all these years.

Or do we?

—o—

It would not be fair to leave this subject without mentioning that both milk outfits list explicit instructions as to the proper method of opening the cartons and where their plants are located.

We noted that Challenge confines its activities to California except for Idaho Falls and Jerome, Idaho.

Carnation, on the other hand, extends into many other parts of the country, including Texas.

By the way, before we forget it, we checked and found that "ergosterol" according to Webster, is an alcohol of high molecular weight formerly prepared from ergot but now chiefly from yeast and when exposed to ultraviolet rays it produces vitamin D used to prevent rickets. Ergot it seems originally came from a growth on grains and cereals.

There was a lot of other stuff on those cartons.

But our lunch hour was up.

—o—

We receive hundreds of releases in the mail each week.

Some provide interesting reading while others find their way to the wastebasket without even a second glance.

There are weeks when we swear that everyone has turned promoter when big concerns, medium-sized concerns and little operations all concentrate their fire on us and we are deluged.

Last week was one of those bad weeks.

—o—

One release, however, got a second glance from us frankly because of the note to the editor that was at the bottom: "Will forward free sample of The Third Arm with receipt of Tear Sheet".

This release came from Eli Kahn of the A-1 Mfg. Co., of Chicago. It described how a particular invention, The Third Arm, was born out of sheer desperation.

It seems that Eli was left alone with Philip, the Kahn's little baby and in trying to feed and diaper the bouncing bundle that was his frantic son, daddy found himself all thumbs.

"Gosh," Eli told himself, "if I only had a third arm!"

Then the idea struck. Right after his wife had returned he rushed to his downstairs workshop and cut out of steel a contrivance with a clamp on which a baby bottle could be fastened and maneuvered in any direction for a complete circle, at any angle.

That's how the "Third Arm" was born and it went into operation immediately on the Kahn's baby.

It was so successful that he quit his job and began to manufacture it on an extensive basis.

It was found that there were other uses for it than just feeding baby. It could be used as a phone or mirror holder, for example.

We have to admit that we enjoyed this particular release.

As a matter of fact we are sending in this column and hope to get a free sample because of it.

We don't know where we will use the "Third Arm" exactly but it might be handy to have around anyway.

Now if someone would only come up with a "Second Head" . . .

—o—

There was quite a bit of excitement on the streets of the town recently when it was reported that someone on E. Central had taken a shot of iodine and was going to end it all.

An ambulance was called for. The cops rolled on the call and even the fire engine went out to direct the ambulance to the address where the guy had supposedly taken his slug of poisonous liquid.

As it turned out, according to our report, the guy merely made out like he was drinking the stuff and instead of swallowing it, tossed it over his shoulder. He then shut himself up in the house.

He turned out to be hale and hearty, when he finally came out, much to the disgust of everyone who rolled on the case.

Iodine, however, it was reported, was about the only thing that had not been drunk on the premises.

Minnie Rowan 90 Claimed By Death

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at John E. Dowdle Mortuary for Mrs. Minnie C. Rowan, 90, who died Monday in a rest home after a lengthy illness. The Rev. Corwin H. Olds of the Congregatonal Church conducted the rites.

Mrs. Rowan was related by marriage to one of the oldest families in Campbell. She was the sister-in-law of the late Frank Gardner, orchardist who died in 1951, and had lived in the Gardner home on Leigh Ave. since 1944.

She is survived by two nephews, Ralph C. and Herbert C. Gardner of Campbell; and five great-nieces and nephews, Mrs Ada McEwen of San Francisco, Mrs. Delpha Doolittle, Mrs. Constant Cloyd and Merle Gardner of Campbell, and Dario Ray Buckwalter of South Dakota.

Neighbors Aid Bereaved Mother and Children

Friends and neighbors are rallying to the aid of Mrs. Alice Perry and children, 189 McGlincy Lane, who were left in desperate circumstances this week by the death of the husband and father, Arvil Perry, 39, who suffered a heart attack on Monday morning.

Perry, who was keeper of the greens at La Rinconada Country Club, was preparing to go on a week's vacation when the fatal attack occurred. The couple's two children, Donna, 11, and Larry, 12, were out of town visiting an aunt at the time.

Perry's death has left his family destitute, according to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Heisler, next door neighbors, who are spearheading a fund drive in the neighborhood for the bereaved family.

The Heislers report the neighbors have been generous with financial aid and a minister has supplied groceries but more help is needed. They ask that anyone wishing to aid the family phone FR 8-0517 for information.

Funeral services for Perry will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the chapel of Monahan, O'Brien and Moriarty, 174 W. San Carlos.

Besides his widow and children, he leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Golden Perry of Delhi, California; two brothers, J. C. Perry, USA; and Carl Perry of Delhi; and three sisters, Mrs. Emma Margo of Campbell, Mrs. Laura McCann of Chowchilla, and Mrs. Lois Hertel of Van Etten, New York.

JUNIOR FAIR ROYALTY

A search for younger generation royalty is being launched by the Santa Clara County Fair, according to A. L. Christopher, president of the Santa Clara County Fair Assn. A Junior King and Queen will be chosen from among contestants selected through the County recreation departments. Entrants must live in the County and must have reached their eighth birthday and must not have reached their twelfth birthday, by August 25, the day of the contest. The contest will be held at the main grandstand at 2 p.m.

Trade names are curious words, often with no apparent derivation. "Kodak" for example, was the result of George Eastman's experimenting with hundreds of combinations of letters in 1888 in an effort to coin a short, punchy and easily remembered trademark for his camera.

Anybody Lose a Roll of Film?

A roll of 35 mm film has been turned in to the Campbell Press by Mrs. Alma Fanning who found it last week in front of the Blue Bell Cafe.

Mrs. Fanning said her husband had the film developed in hopes of identifying the owner. Subjects include a baby seated on a lawn, new home and a picnic.

The owner can claim the film by calling at the Press office, 35 Dillon Ave.

Third Round Play Gets Underway In Pony League

Third round play in the Campbell Pony League got under way this week with all four teams, Bishop Hawaiians, Campbell Rotary, Campbell Kiwanis and Campbell Lions, playing their first games.

Bishop Hawaiians won the second round championship in the same manner in which they copped the first round crown. The Hawaiians tied for the top spot at the end of the first round with Kiwanis and won the play-off game. They again tied Kiwanis at the end of the second round and again won the play-off game.

The play-off game took place last Thursday followed by an all-star game on Friday. Bishop's outfit won from Kiwanis in the play-off 7 to 2 but lost to the all-stars by a 7 to 1 count.

Because of interest shown, the play in the Pony League has been extended past the original schedule and will end on August 31 at the end of the third round.

Games are played at the Campbell High School diamond on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday starting at 5:45 p.m. Teams are composed of boys in the 13-15 age bracket.

Topping the league in batting for the second round was Gary Brown, of the Bishops, with 4 out of 5 hits for an average of .880. Charles Jackson, Kiwanis, had 10 for 14.

The top 10 batters in the league for the second round were: Gary Brown, Bishops; Charles Jackson, Kiwanis; Terry Shore, Kiwanis; Randy Willoughby, Rotary; Ron Dye, Lions; Ken Christian, Kiwanis; Bill Anger, Kiwanis; Bill Rutter, Rotary; Jerry Norman, Bishops; Dennis Smith, Kiwanis; Dick Murillo, Lions.

Ken Christian, catcher for the Kiwanis, has the distinction of being the only player in the Pony League to have hit a home-run during the entire summer. Christian got his four bagger in the game against the Rotary last Tuesday.

Haskell Bowen, who will coach at Camden High next fall, is the director of Pony League play which is under the sponsorship of the Campbell High School district recreation program.

Star Swimmers Lower 17 National Standards in Meet

By Lynn Manley

Campbell's Steve Skold, swimming in his last meet of the season, splashed to four national age-group marks at the third annual Kiwanis-Campbell Swim Club meet held Saturday and Sunday before capacity crowds at Campbell high school. Steve walked off with the boys' trophy, an honor which he shared last year with Mike Brown of Berkeley City Club.

Lynn Hardy of Berkeley City Club paced her club to the team championship and shared girls' top honors with Kathe Simecek and Sherry Silva of Bay-O-Vista, each of whom set national marks during the meet. A total of 40 meet, 28 P.A. and 17 national records fell during Campbell's largest swimfest.

Berkeley Y and Fresno Y tied for second in team standings with Santa Clara Swim Club finishing fourth.

Steve Skold was unbeatable on the short 20-yard course as he won five events and raced a leg on the Campbell Club's 160-yard medley relay team. The team missed the national record by one-tenth of a second in Saturday's trial heats then swam to first in the finals establishing new meet and P.A. records.

Skold's first mark was set in the 100-yard freestyle where he bettered his old mark with a sharp 50.9 in his heat. In the 100-yard butterfly, the Campbell flyer broke Frank Bunnell's old national mark of 58.4 by 1.2 seconds as he outdistanced the field.

In Sunday's events, Steve proved equally proficient, setting a new 200-yard freestyle mark with a time of 1:55.3 in the heats and winning the event in an exciting race with Fresno's Hal Coulston. In the special 40-yard freestyle, Skold racked up his fourth mark swimming the distance in 18.2 and breaking the former mark of 18.7, also held by Bunnell. The local's fifth win came in the 160-yard individual medley, a record which he already holds.

Roz Skold qualified for three finals in the girls' 15-16 division, finishing second in the 100-yard freestyle with her all-time best of 1:03.2, fourth in the 100-yard butterfly and second in the backstroke

Kathe Simecek set a new standard in the girls' 13-14 160-yard individual medley in 1:59.5 while Sherry Silva's mark came in the 11-12 40-yard backstroke in the time of 25.2.

Karen Winn of Berkeley Y broke the old girls' 10 and under 80-yard medley mark in the time of 1:02.1 and Fresno's Bill Coulston set a new mark in the 13-14 160-yard medley in 1:48.2.

Chris Grandi of Covington continued the two-day barrage of national marks as she won the girls' ten and under 20-yard breastroke in 13.2

Campbell's winning 15-16 medley relay team included Dean Faulkner, Jerry Hyde, Skold and Andre.

Coach Len Scroggins of the Campbell Swim Club termed the meet "very successful except for the number of entries which proved slightly too many." The Campbell meet has proved highly popular with many clubs and as a result almost 1800 entries were received in the two-day affair. Coach Scroggins has indicated that next year the number of events a swimmer may enter probably will be reduced, thus speeding up the meet.

Other local winners:

Dave Andre—5th, 100-yard freestyle, 6th, 200-yard freestyle, 6th, 40-yard freestyle
Mike Conway—6th, 100-yard backstroke

REPRESENTATIVE IN CONGRESS
TENTH DISTRICT, CALIFORNIA

The biographical data on the 435 members of the House of Representatives reveals a wide variety of trades and professions in which members made their livings before starting their public careers. Lawyers head the list and out number the second place farmers by two to one. Insurance men, labor leaders, doctors and merchants are all represented along with several publishers, radio commentators and manufacturers. Almost every occupation is represented except — professional engineers and architects.

I don't know of a single representative who claims registration in these fields of skill on a professional basis. But, last week we suddenly found ourselves with a surplus of architects and engineers on our hands —435 in fact—and all amateurs!

The House spent most of one week debating proposed improvements in and around the District of Columbia. The affair started out with a bill to construct a tunnel across the Potomas near Lincoln Memorial. The House had already authorized a draw bridge to allow ships full access to the river. The Senate opposed a draw bridge and authorized a high suspension structure allowing ships to pass under it without a draw. As a compromise the House had suggested a tunnel. 435 amateur engineers in the House authorized a high suspension bridge with a draw. Then they proceeded to kill the whole thing.

A few days later the Air Force Academy Chapel at Colorado Springs was considered. The 19 spires of the proposed design were referred to by amateur architects as "19 Tee-Pees in a row." Finally the sary funds were approved.

The new cultural center in what is called the "Foggy Bottom" of Washington was the next practice grounds for our 435 amateurs. Learned discussions in architectural design was delivered by Iowa farmers and Philadelphia lawyers as the argument reached the fever point. Apparently the House was more courageous in voting against culture than against religion. Unlike the Air Force Chapel this dream was voted down. "Foggy Bottom" will continue without its culture!

Too many cooks have spoiled a lot of pies. The last week a few more architects might have saved some.

NEWLYWED MR. AND MRS. HAROLD BRYAN . . .At home in San Jose after a wedding trip to Nevada are Harold Bryan and his bride, the former Shirley Ann Sosa. The young couple were married July 14 in St. Patrick's Church.

Newlywed Harold Bryans at Home In San Jose after Nevada Trip

Now at home at 555 E. Julian, San Jose, after a honeymoon trip to Reno and Las Vegas are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Edward Bryan who were wed July 14 at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in San Jose. The Rev. William Flanagan officiated at the mid-afternoon double ring ceremony.

The bride is the former Miss Shirley Ann Sosa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sosa, 295 N. 12 Street, San Jose. She is a graduate of San Jose High School and is presently employed at I.B.M.

Harold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Bravo, 1049 Harriet Ave., Campbell. He is a graduate of Campbell High and is employed in the mail room of the San Jose Mercury-News.

When escorted by her father to the altar decked with white gladioli, stock and snapdragons Shirley wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. The long-sleeved fitted lace bodice was styled with a scalloped scoop neckline and alternating ruffles of lace and tulle fashioned the bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil was appliqued with lace by her grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Wright, and caught to a coronet of lace embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a fan arrangement of white stephanotis, orchids, and ribbons on a white prayer book used by the mother of the groom at her wedding.

A unique feature of the groom's attire was a white embroidered bow tie previously worn by his grandfather at his wedding 52 years ago.

Maid of honor was Miss Anita Sosa, sister of the bride, who wore a pink lace and net ballerina and carried pink carnations with green ribbon bows on a white fan.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Margaret Sosa and Alice Gonzales, cousins of the bride. Both wore nile green ballerinas of lace and net and carried green carnations with pink bows.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Sosa selected a pale pink and white embossed nylon ensemble with white accessories. Mrs. Bravo, mother of the groom, chose a nile green and yellow nylon print with white accessories. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

Ben Pappiani, cousin of the bride, performed the duties of best man; Dick Scott, Frank Rodrigues, Al Johnson, Lucas Cardenas, and Sal Valverde were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Onishi Hall, San Jose, where the young couple received the felicitations from 250 guests and cut their four-tiered wedding cake.

Before leaving on her wedding trip to Nevada, Shirley donned a full-skirted powder blue dress with matching accessories and beige duster and pinned on an orchid from her bridal bouquet.

INSTANT FILLING MAKES TASTY LEMON PIES

For a new variation of the ever-popular lemon pie, try individual pies made with instant lemon pie filling. With all the tart-sweet flavor of traditional lemon meringue pie, they are quick and easy with no-cooking-required, instant filling. The miniature pies also eliminate messy cutting and crumbling in serving, making them ideal for large groups. Serve them as a tasty accompaniment with mid-afternoon tea or as a delicious late evening snack with full-bodied coffee.

To make the filling simply mix one package of Royal Instant Lemon Pie Filling with ½ cup sugar. Add 2 cups boiling water and beat with rotary beater about one minute or until thoroughly dissolved. Pour the mixture into 8 bakery shortcake shells. Chill in refrigerator until firmly set. Top chilled filling with meringue made from 2 egg whites and ¼ cup sugar stiffly beaten. Brown in oven 500 degrees about 3 minutes. Or use whipped cream as a topping instead of meringue.

Camp Wastahi and Camp Fire News

A trip to enchanting Santa's Village near Scott's Valley on August 7 was the thrill of the summer for a group of local Blue Birds and marked the fifth summer trip planned by the Santa Clara County Camp Fire Girls.

Nestled among the redwoods with its own little lagoon and duck pond, the picturesque little village enthralled both Blue Birds and counselors. The girls first visited Santa's house, which is made of ice and located at the North Pole, and sang for him. Santa greeted them and gave some of the rules they must follow when in his land. After that, they went on to Mrs. Claus's house for a lollipop from the lollipop tree in her garden.

The puppet show was the next stop on their agenda and here they found the puppets waiting for their Blue Bird friends to come before putting on their act. The play was about Dorothy and the Wizard of Oz visiting Santa's Village. Discovering one of the girls was celebrating her birthday, G.G., the giraffe (one of the puppets) had a gift for her.

After lunch in the picnic area, the girls went on rides. Each had a book of tickets good for four rides, the first of which was on small tractors that they drove around the yard. Next came a train ride through the enchanted forest full of story book characters. Then the merry-go-round, followed by a ride on the mule train drawn by twelve real live mules.

The girls found steps among the redwoods, leprechauns sitting around, giant toadstools to climb on and run around, and even a pixie house in a tree which they climbed up and slid down a special slide.

At the goat pen, the girls went in to play with the kids who tried to eat everything they could reach and jumped after things they couldn't reach.

Back at Santa's house, each Blue Bird was enrolled as Santa's helper and given a certificate and a button. To climax their day, they had a ride in a sleigh drawn by Santa's live reindeer.

Among the girls who reluctantly boarded the bus back to reality were these Campbell Misses: Linda Woods, Karen Estepa, Sharon Adcock, Charlene Reich, Katherine Bowling, Donna Garcia, Kathy Porter, and Robyn Jensen.

—o—

Miss Sue B., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Burrows, is head of Blue Bird nature study at Camp Wastahi. She instructs the girls in the camp's nature program by taking them on hikes, making spatter prints and playing nature games. Miss Sue B, is a graduate of Campbell High and an active Luta Horizon Club member as well as being honored queen of Campbell Job's Daughters. She plans to enter San Jose State in September and major in Secondary Education.

—o—

Campbell District Day Camp for Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls got off to a flying start at Saratoga Springs Tuesday August 13, under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Smith and Mrs. Leslie Jauncey. Fifteen counselors are on hand and a total of 93 girls enrolled in this week's session.

The girls are captivated by the babbling brook that runs past their site. At the camp they get a half hour of swimming each day, archery instruction, and learn how to weave reed baskets, make pyro lace bracelets, lummi sticks, sand vases, and nature pictures, and study Smokey, the Bear, literature. Stories, games, and songs also take up some of the time.

Thursday the girls will have a cook-out and Friday there will be a Council Fire with all the girls dressed in Indian costumes made from cleaners' bags. Camp Fire Girls will have an overnight "camp-out" Friday night chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Rae Coe.

Baptist Minister Resigns Pastorate

Reverend Hoover came to the Saratoga church two years ago from Santa Rosa where he was pastor of the Grace Baptist Church. He and his family will be moving to the new pastorate around hte first of September.

Golden Puff-Top Sandwich

An airy baked-on crust gives Golden Puff-Top Sandwiches a festive look for August, Sandwich Time.

Sandwiches are a tonic for both sagging summer appetites and monotonous menus. The endless variety of this form of food almost guarantees that each new sandwich meal will be a memorable eating experience.

If mealtime at your house needs re-vitalizing, try Golden Puff-Top Sandwiches. Hot and open-faced, they feature salami and cheese baked with a frothy egg topping.

Make the topping by beating egg yolks and blending in mayonnaise and mustard. Fold in beaten egg whites and spread the mixture over the sandwiches. Just 15 minutes in the oven finishes the sandwiches for your table.

Serve Golden Puff-Top Sandwiches for an August supper along with julienne-style green beans, tomato and cucumber slices, a beverage and dessert.

Last Wednesday morning Quito district had a miniature flood of its own when a water pipe in Quito Bakery broke during the night and filled the shop with three inches of water. Customers were amused at the sight of Jo and Loeta sloshing around the shop in galoshes most of the morning. Some of the water seeped through and managed to make the TV shop next door pretty wet, too.

The time has come when all mothers of Little Leaguers can catch their breath and try to get their housholds back to normal. The games are over for the summer; no more "when do we eat", "hurry-up" meals, little "snacks" before the game and little "snacks" after the game. It seems that the boys expend so much energy playing ball it's almost impossible to fill them up and they're always hungry Passing thought, maybe it's a habit now and they will continue to eat like this through the year. The wear and tear on refrigerator doors will be terrific.

Broadway Hit to Open at Alcazar

"The Diary of Anne Frank", one of the outstanding plays of recent years, begins a four-week engagement at the Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco, on Monday evening, August 26.

Winner of the Pulitzer Prize and the New York Drama Critics Award as the best play of 1955-56, "The Diary of Anne Frank" recently embarked on a coast-to-coast tour after playing 90 weeks on Broadway.

Joseph Schildkraut of stage, screen and TV fame is starred in the role he created on Broadway. Featured players are Maria Palmer, Lou Jacobi, Nan McFarland, Abigail Kellogg, Lou Gilbert and Otto Hulett. Miss Kellogg plays Anne.

"The Diary of Anne Frank" was dramatized by Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett from the diary kept by an adolescent Jewish girl while hiding from the Nazis for two years in an Amsterdam attic with seven others. Quietly, often gaily, it recreates the day-by-day life of these people, their problems, their simple pleasures, their irritations and apprehensions.

HEADS CAMPAIGN

The appointment of Richard O'Donnell as chairman of the Business Division of O'Connor Hospital Expansion Program has been announced by Patrick H. Peabody, General Chairman of the campaign to raise $300,000 to provide 30 additional beds at O'Connor Hospital. Peabody stated that advance solicitation by O'Donnell's division will commence the latter part of August.

HEADLIGHT BLINDNESS

It's a law in California that you must dim your headlights when you come within 500 feet of an oncoming vehicle. It's a good law, says the California State Automobile Association, because glaring headlights can cause temporary blindness for as much as three seconds. Give the other motorist a break by dimming your headlights in time.

Former Campbell Student Describes Three-Week Tour of Scandinavia

Editor's Note: The Press has been fortunate during the past two years to have had a "foreign correspondent" in the person of Miss Virginia Grattan, daughter of Mrs. Roy Archibald, of Campbell. Miss Grattan has been employed in Europe since 1955 and periodically has sent interesting reports to The Press of her adventures.

Miss Grattan, a former Campbell High and San Jose State student, in the following report describes a three-week automobile tour of the Scandinavian countries. Her account of this trip, as has been the case of all reports she has submitted of her previous "wanderings" in Europe, vividly portrays an American's viewpoint.

Our "foreign correspondent" now is homeward bound after her two years in Europe. She is returning via a 'round-the-world trip. We, at The Press, are going to miss our European reports. We know you will too. —G. V.

SCANNING SCANDINAVIA

By Virginia Grattan

(In July my room mate and I spent three weeks driving through Scandinavia.)

Wonderful, wonderful Copenhagen! The song is true. Even on the ferry to Copenhagen you begin to catch the spirit of this gay city. You indulge in various delicacies from the ship's smorgasbord, sample some world famous Danish bread and before you know it you're in wonderful Copenhagen.

After getting settled the well informed tourist rushes off to Tivoli gardens, because the well informed tourist knows that Tivoli is the center of gaiety in Copenhagen. In this amusement park right in the center of town you can dance, hear a symphony, dine or ride a ferris wheel. The park has every kind of amusement, but it maintains a certain "niceness" and charm. The Danes and tourists alike enjoy the park during the few months of the year when it is open.

We strolled once around the grounds, looked in a gift shop, watched an outdoor wrestling match, bought an ice cream cone, watched people rowing on the lake, passed the Chinese pagoda, saw kiddies riding a miniature train, then stopped at a cafe for some delicious Danish pastries. A moment later we were startled by the sound of a brass band. The Tivoli guard was making its daily parade through the gardens.

We were even more surprised when we got to look at the band members. The guard is comprised of boys up to the age of seventeen. The little fellows make up the fife and drum corps, the older ones the band. And they are musicians every one. They marched up on the large outdoor stage and played a program of music ranging from symphonic band music to the tunes of Cole Porter. Their own seventeen year old conductor directed the band. The drum corps beat out a crisp drum tatoo and they all marched away.

Cigar Smokers

Tivoli is also a good place to see cigar smokers, that is, women cigar smokers. Women smoke cigars all over Copenhagen, and there are always quite a few at Tivoli. The tiny purse size cigars are a favorite with the older women. It is no surprise to see a well dressed woman, old enough to be your mother, sitting in a nice cafe, having a good cigar.

After tearing ourselves away from Tivoli, we went for a drive along the harbor. Since it was Sunday everyone was out promenading in the green park along the harbor's edge. Boat owners were working on their boats in the cove. Across the way the Danish King's white and gold yacht rested at anchor. We got to the harbor just in time to wave goodbye to the newly christened Princess Margarthe sail off to Oslo with a load of happy Norwegians returning from vacation in Copenhagen. A little further on we found what we were looking for—Hans Christian Anderson's Little Mermaid, sitting on a rock, looking wistfully out to sea.

The next day we visited Den Permanent, a store comprised of handicraft from all over Scandinavia. The store displays pottery, glass, woodwork, jewelry, furniture etc. selected from the best of Scandinavian workmanship and sold at standardized prices.

In the evening we returned to Tivoli to the Pantomime theater and watched a performance in the old pantomime tradition with Harlequin, Columbine, Cassander and Pierrot.

Then to Elsinore

On the fourth day we drove to Elsinore 28 miles north of Copenhagen. Here at the edge of the sea is the famous Kronborg castle setting of Shakespeare's play Hamlet. There is a legend in Danish history of a Prince Amleth, son of a king, who lived in Jutland. It was from this legend that Shakespeare wrote Hamlet, situating the action in the ancient Kronborg castle at Elsinore.

The tragedy of Hamlet was first performed at Kronborg in 1816. From 1937 the play has been given here almost every year by outstanding players from many countries. Among the well known actors who have played here are Laurence Olivier and Vivian Leigh, John Gielgud and Fay Compton, Michael Redgrave, Richard Burton and Claire Bloom. Unfortunately there has been no performance of the play since 1954, reportedly due to a lack of funds.

From Elsinore you can look across the water to Sweden, a stone's throw away. We put the Volkswagen on the ferry and in about twenty minutes we were in Halsingborg, Sweden.

Switching to the left side of the highway, we drove through the rolling hills and farmland to Gothenburg and on to Uddevalla for the night. The next day about noon we crossed the great bridge near Svinesund which joins Sweden and Norway, and later that afternoon we were in Oslo.

Oslo is situated on a beautiful fjord strewn with dozens of islands, and busy with ships and sail boats. Although the city is over 900 years old it appears to be as up to date as any American city. The people dress and look more like Americans than in any other city in Europe.

We hit a warm spell in Oslo; consequently most of our visit was spent in and around the fjord. We had dinner the first evening at the Ekeberg restaurant which is on a hill and affords a sweeping panorama of the bay, islands, city and mountains beyond. Another evening we dined at the yacht club and watched the hundreds of sailboats return home at nightfall. One afternoon we went swimming in the fjord with a swarm of Norwegians who looked as pale in their swimming suits as we did. Apparently this was the first warm weather this year.

Surprise in Oslo

Perhaps the nicest surprise we had in Oslo occurred our first evening there. After dinner we went walking down town and discovered the National Theater. The poster said "Peer Gynt" was playing this evening. We checked our watches and saw it was eight-thirty. Too late. We were going to walk away, but decided to ask a man standing at the door if the play had begun. He said it had and unfortunately it would not play again until next week. We expressed regret, and he said that it might be possible to see the remainder of the play, to come with him. We did and he showed us to two seats in the balcony, wished us an enjoyable evening and left. Through this unexpected kindness we were able to see the great traditional play of Norway, "Peer Gynt", written by Norway's greatest playwright, Henrik Ibsen with incidental music by Norway's best known composer Edvard Grieg. Needless to say it was the finest, most memorable production of "Peer Gynt" one could ever see.

Another high point was a visit to the Vigeland sculpture park. This unique park was designed and sculptured over a period of forty years by the Norwegian sculpture Gustav Vigeland. There are over 300 human figures in the four main parts of the park—the bridge, the fountain, the circular stair and the granite column. Undoubtedly the most provocative single work is the 50 foot high, 270 ton monolith. The column is a mass of 121 figures piled together, turning, struggling upwards. The meaning of this work has been a source of conjecture since its completion in 1943, by three stone-masons after 15 years of work. It was in March 1943 that the sculptor Vigeland died.

One afternoon we went "museuming" and visited the Fram and Kon-Tiki museums. The Fram was one of the early vessels to explore the South and North poles. It is housed in a building at the edge of the fjord together with charts and relics of the voyage. Nearby is the Kon-Tiki, the balsa raft with which Thor Heyerdalh and his companions crossed the Pacific in 1947. The raft is especially lighted for dramatic effect, and it is placed next to a huge, mystic, stone figure from Easter Island in the Pacific. Both museums are a tribute to the Norwegian explorers who through courage and perseverance have furthered our understanding of these unknown regions.

One Misadventure

We had one misadventure in Oslo. At the tourist office we were told that there were certain special events we shouldn't miss, one of which was a "folk dance festival". We were very anxious to see genuine Norwegian folk dancing and took careful note of the time and place.

On the evening of the festival we arrived at the park a little early. We watched the crowd gather, stood for a half-hour and listened to speeches by the mayor and important dignitaries which the crowd pressed in on all sides. After the introductory speeches, a queen of the festival and two attendants were crowned. We stood. Then the master of ceremonies had a twenty minute chat with a Laplander and his two small boys in Lapland language. We waited. Finally, the MC announced that the festivities would begin. We were relieved. From the back of the platform came a group of youngsters all properly dressed —in street clothes. The band struck up rock and roll and the teenagers rocked and rolled around the park. We were amazed at the stragne turn of events, but fascinated with the dexterity our Norwegian friends displayed in their intrepretation of the American dance.

We left Oslo and drove to Stockholm with an overnight stop at Kristinehaun. In Stockholm the weather took a turn for the worse and dampened our traveling zeal. Bad weather mars the beauty of such a city situated on many islands surrounded by blue waters mirroring the sky. Added to this, the theater, ballet, opera season had closed in June. Consequently Stockholm impressed us as being a busy, grey, rather dull city.

Goodwill Ambassador

We were saved from complete gloom by an unexpected event. At the border we met a Captain in the Swedish army who was on his way to Stockholm. He invited us to meet his family and spend an evening with them when we reached Stockholm. We had hardly given another thought when the Captain called on us at our hotel and insisted we visit them that evening. We finally did and discovered a new kind of Goodwill ambassador.

Captain Moosberg, we learned, was a member of the palace guard and held a rank comparable to Colonel. He was part of the truce inspection teams in Korean war, and had traveled all over the world. He said he realized that the ordinary traveler didn't get a chance to become acquainted with the people while traveling through countries. So he offers people he meets "a visit in a Swedish home" when they get to Stockholm. We thoroughly enjoyed the hospitality of our Swedish friends and wholeheartedly approve of their "good neighbor policy".

During our remaining days in Stockholm we visited the Millesgardden, home of the late Swedish sculptor, Carl Milles, and had a look at the Royal Theater where both Garbo and Bergman began their careers, bought some Swedish glass, and took in an old film.

HOMEWARD BOUND

After two years of working and wandering in Europe, I am HOMEWARD bound July 16th. I leave Frankfurt Germany and wing southward to Italy for twelve days. The last of July I will begin my Eastward journey home via Athens, Istanbul, Beirut, Teheran, Karachi, New Delhi, Calcutta, Rangoon, Bangkok, Singapore, Saigon, Hongkong, Tokyo, Hawaii and SAN FRANCISCO.
